To end this pandemic, we need to use all effective prevention tools. Studies show that COVID-19 vaccines are one of the most effective ways to keep you from contracting the virus. Vaccines work with your body's natural defenses (immunity) so that you are ready to fight the virus, if you are exposed. Other tools, like wearing a face mask that covers your nose and mouth and social distancing from people you don't live with, also help prevent the spread of COVID-19.
